How does it work?

Mediagate runs on any new or existing Android TV (Google TV), and can be integrated with all other TVs via a small footprint set-top box, securely connected to the TV's HDMI port.

The software turns the TV into an interactive entertainment system, offering a home-from-home TV experience, with the additional features, services and security of a hospitality TV.

The system is cloud-based, providing a centrally managed and fully customisable interactive graphical user interface.
